

First Name	Last Name	College	How is your college planning to distribute the emergency aid funds of the CARES Act?	Are you using existing emergency fund policies to share these funds?	If not, what methods are you using?
Kimberly	Geer	Lake Washington Institute of Technology	to alleviate shortages for veterans or other students who are unable to take full class loads, emergency needs as identified by students	Yes	n/a
Kimberly	Uphold	Bates Technical College	By establishing a new process that incorporates multiple department working together to reach our student. Require a FAFSA and complete file and a new form that captures PJ need information to do income adjustments, in an effort to max. PELL and award CARES Act grant. This process will assist our students by maximizing funding for them in an time when so many face extrema economic hardships.	No	Establishing a new process that captures all the information need to assist our student to the best of our ability with in the regulations.
Brigitte	Baker	Everett Community College	It is still undecided, it sounds like the FAO will be responsible for entering the students information into FAM if not a FA student and disbursing through the FAPC created by the State Board. It will be very manual tracking for students that are not already in the FA system. The funds will be going through BankMobile if it is decided to disburse through the FAO.	No	The college has a team that is creating an application to track COVID related expenses
Maisee	Peralez	Walla Walla Community College	Tuition/Fees/Books/Educational Needs, Living/Housing, Food, Child Care, Internet Services	Yes	We are using current Emergency Funding Practices already in place
Johanna	Dwyer	South Puget Sound Community College	The college asked students to identify if they were having COVID-19 related hardships. Using the student responses the college is reaching out to those student to text and email to ask how they can assist the students during this time. The funds will be distributed to students to meet these needs.	No	The emergency funds require an application and documentation, as mentioned we already had students identify they were in need. We are instead reaching out to those students. We will be disbursing through FAM to get funds to students quickly.
Tammy	Zibell	Spokane Community College	We will be assisting students with tuition & fees, laptops, personal expenses, transportation, internet access, food, daycare expenses, utility bills and any other emergency situations that may happen.	No	We are creating an Emergency Relief Funding policy to include ABE and Running Start Students, Non Financial Aid students and increasing maximum amounts.
Kim	Matson	Tacoma CC	A decision not yet made.	No	Possibly we will use Emergency Grant fund policies, but no decision yet made.
Barbara	Cloutier	Peninsula College	Student Applications stating COVID-19 Emergency; Bank Mobile refund process or EFT.	Yes	Existing emergency fund policies with adjustments to meet CARES Act requirements.
Marisa	Geier	Lower Columbia College	As broadly as possible to include not only traditional financial aid students but also international, undocumented, and those previously not eligible for aid due to other eligibility requirements and/or high EFC.	No	We're waiting until after the SBCTC meeting on 4/14/20 to make a final decision on the application process and distribution of funds.
Teresa	Buchmann	Greenriver.edu	Still awaiting confirmation from exec staff... but hoping to use a portion as direct disbursement to high need students (running start on fee waiver, ELL/TS students, Open Doors, Pell eligible students, student receiving funding through WASFA applicaiton.) The other portion would be put in a fund. All students could apply for funds based on specific needs. A committee would then approve requests and amounts. FA will disburse all funds spanning Spring, Summer, and Fall.	Yes	We are creating a committee to run similar to our emergency grant process (Gator Pledge) for the "fund" portion. Direct disbursement groups are high need students identified through other means. Again, awaiting exec team confirmation before we have a solid plan.
Melanie	Ruiz	Bellevue College	We are still working on the details but we are hoping to create an online application for students to complete requesting assistance with 4 main categories: Food, Housing, Technology and Books	No	We are trying to cast a broader net than our existing emergency fund policies. Again, nothing has been fully developed yet but we are looking at simplified online application for students to complete. We may or may not require documentation to be uploaded as well. Students will check their category of need and we'll determine the amount of the aid offered based on that as well as their enrollment level.

First Name	Last Name	College	How is your college planning to distribute the emergency aid funds of the CARES Act?	Are you using existing emergency fund policies to share these funds?	If not, what methods are you using?
Christina	Castorena	Edmonds	We developed a google form for students to complete. The reason must be COVID 19 related and we will award for tuition/fees (max $2000), rent (max $1500), food, medical, child care (max $500). We are setting aside some of our allocated funds for summer and fall 2020 (not planning to spend the full allocation this spring).	No	We developed a google form that students complete and we have a team of staff monitoring the requests and following up with students. We are leveraging other resources first (e.g., FA, Work First, Worker Retraining, Opp Grant, BFET and our Foundation emergency funds).
STACEY	SAVINO	Grays Harbor College	Through the financial aid system (FAM) with disbursements being made to students through their selected BankMobile refund preference.	Yes	Students will submit requests for emergency funding through our current emergency fund process. Staff will review the requests and then award funding from the appropriate funding source (ie SEAG, CARES, Foundation).
Brianne	Sanchez	North Seattle College	undecided at this point. We will likely create an application to request funds and award with a quarterly capped amount.	Yes	n/a
Rita	Ramirez	Big Bend Community College	We have an existing emergency funding application and are thinking about using that to identify students we can distribute funds. However, we are still working on different options outside the application to fund students.	No	Our existing emergency fund policies requires the student to have unmet need. In some cases, we may award a student again their EFC exceeding unmet need if possible (new guidance from WSAC for state aid). Also, we may use information from the application to increase a students budget.
Chantel	Fields	Bellingham Technical College	Plan is tentative as of 4/14/20. Award prioritization: 60% reserved for financial aid recipients (reflects proportion of student body receiving aid), 40% reserved for non-aid recipients. Maximum quarterly amounts determined after analysis of student data and consider BTC's allocation (EFC and enrollment). FAFSA/WASFA filers (no separate application required): -EFC: 0 - 5576 = $600 -EFC: 5577 - 8000 = $400 -EFC: 8001 - need = $200 Non-FAFSA/WASFA filers (application required): -Students who receive federal benefits (Medicaid, SSI, SNAP, free and reduced lunch, TANF, WIC) = $600 Students who do not receive federal benefits: -Family Income: $0 - $4000/month = $400 -Family Income: $4000+/month = $200 Higher amounts may be awarded on a case-by-case basis at the discretion of the Executive Director of Student Financial Resources.	No	We may award FAFSA/WASFA filers without requiring a separate application. All emergency requests require an application.
Tracy	Dahl	Centralia College	While nothing is set up officially, the first is to reserve some funds for summer and fall emergency grant funds that impact students in those quarters. The funds will be for COA related expenses such as food/housing, course materials, technology (a big impact), health care or child care. Also considering tuition for those student's may not be able to make payment plan arrangements based on COVID-19 related circumstances.	Yes	Will balance requests between both programs to maximize funding support for students.
Deann	Holliday	Cascadia College	We have not made a final decision at this time. I am pulling together data and numbers that will help guide us in how we will distribute the funds. TBD	No	TBD

First Name	Last Name	College	How is your college planning to distribute the emergency aid funds of the CARES Act?	Are you using existing emergency fund policies to share these funds?	If not, what methods are you using?
Trinity	Huttner	Pierce College	we are still meeting to determine our final process. We are currently working on an application process and then will have the funds processed through our financial aid office.	No	we are still meeting to determine our final process. Currently we are thinking of a simple application process, ensuring our most vulnerable students receive the application. Identifying all funding the student is eligible to receive and then also providing CAREs act funding to assist students with immediate needs regardless of additional FA need. We will be awarding starting Spring 2020 and then taking applications through the summer and fall as well. We will be looking at all the needs the students are identifying as having and providing the CAREs act funds as well as other resources they may need.
Marjorie	Davis	Spokane Falls Community College	Initial disbursement to all students enrolled spring quarter. Additional funds to needy students based on EFC with remaining funds to be disbursed to students based on application.	No	Not sure I understand the question but our current emergency funds policy is based on "need" and goes to FA students typically. The remaining funds from this distribution will go to any student that applies and shows need due to hardship resulting from COVID-19.
